Instructional Techniques

Class sessions may include short lectures and discussions, interactive role-play exercises and tasks in pairs and small groups, in-class reading, sentence-writing exercises, and interactive multimedia exercises and demonstrations.

Reading Assignments

Students read selections from the required text and reading selections on handouts and answer comprehension questions about those passages. Students read assigned passages in preparation for class reports and discussions.

Writing Assignments

Students write original sentences in response to questions about assigned reading selections. Students complete simple guided paragraphs about subjects they have researched on the internet.

Out-of-class Assignments

As homework, students research simple class-related topics on the Internet, using resources from the Coastline Library, as needed, and report on these topics to the class. Students complete exercises presented in the online supplements for their required texts.

Demonstration of Critical Thinking

Students view a printed ad or watch a commercial and differentiate between fact and opinion in the ad or commercial. They complete a chart showing facts and opinions and evaluate the effectiveness of the ad or commercial.

Required Writing, Problem Solving, Skills Demonstration

Students read a short passage and write answers to questions about the passage. They are asked to identify the main idea and supporting details and write their opinions about the strength of support for the main idea.
